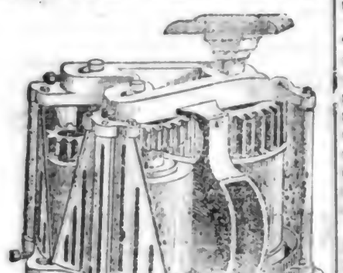
No. 4 complete	"	90, "	140

VICTOR CANE MILL.



We are selling with our Evaporator, the above celebrated Mill, which is far ahead of all others for strength, durability and capacity. It is built on an entire different principle from any other mill, and cannot be excelled. Our Nos. 1, 2 and 3 Mill s are fully equal in size and capacity, to Nos 2, 3 and 4 of any other manufacture, which makes them the cheapest as well as the best. We warrant them to be superior to any other kind offered for sale in this market.

CASH PRICE.

No. 0 Light one-horse Mill	$70
No. 1 Small " "	85
No 2 Large two-horse "	100
No. 3 Small "	135

CIDER MILLS.

We have the celebrated Buckeye Cider Mill, and the Kentucky Mill. They are both considered as good as any in the market for grinding and pressing grapes and apples. Send in your orders early to secure them.

CASH PRICE.

Buckeye No. 1	$50
Kentucky No. 1	45
Hutchinson No. 1	25

GRAIN DRILLS.

We have an assortment of the best kinds made in store. It has been ascertained beyond doubt, that wheat which was drilled in last year, was not badly winter-killed, and produced a fair crop, whilst that which was sown broadcast on the same soil, was almost entirely worthless. In drilling in wheat you save the labor of one man and team, besides saving seed enough in sowing 100 acres to pay for your drill.

CASH PRICE.

SHERMAN'S IMPROVED

CLOTHES WRINGER

Has been pronounced by hundreds who have tested it to be the very best Wringer in this market—

1st. Because it is so simple in construction that it can possibly get out of order.

2d. There is no wood about it to swell, shrink or decay.

3d. They are so compact that it is not necessary to remove them from the tub after using.

4th. It sits so low the strain on the tub is much less than with other wringers.

5th. It is so simple that a child ten years old can operate it.

6th. It needs no adjusting, except for the largest article, as there is no necessity for starting the set screw to wring anything from a lace collar to a sheet.

7th. It saves time, labor, clothes and money. It is worth as much for starching as wringing, leaving the starch perfectly even in every part of the clothes.

We sell this Wringer guaranteeing it to perform in a satisfactory manner, or we do not ask the purchaser to keep them.

☞The editor of the Frankfort Commonwealth says he was always an Emancipationist. Ah, indeed. We never heard of his supporting the Emancipation ticket in 1849, when it was a question fairly before the State. In 1859, when J. F. Bell ran for Governor, and J. M. Harlan for Congress in the Frankfort district, the Commonwealth supported them both. And what was the specialty at that time with both these candidates? It was the doctrine of Rhett, Yancey & Co.; that the Constitution protected and, in fact, required slavery in every Territory; that every department of the Federal Government was bound to protect the owner of slaves in every Territory against what they contemptuously called squatter-sovereignty. They and the Commonwealth sneered themselves nearly to death at that happy term of reproach invented by the fire-eaters—squatter sovereignty. This was the very plot of the whole contest. The issue presented by these fire-eaters and aided by the Commonwealth & Co. was the wedge calculated and designed to dissolve the Union. It was a rugged issue that placed the South on one side and nearly all the North on the other. It was the issue presented at Charleston and Baltimore by the Commonwealth's coadjutors, and its refusal by the North was made the occasion of a defection. We told the Commonwealth & Co. daily what they were doing; that they were raising a storm they could not lay; but no; we were a squatter sovereign and an Abolitionist. We would not go with an Administration of our own party in making such a test. But the Commonwealth and its party went pell-mell, until the fatal calamity came, the natural result of their teaching.

Now the editor of the Commonwealth says: "Oh, we were never a pro slavery man." He wasn't, eh? Well he was the best imitator of one we ever saw. He could simulate that character to perfection. He was so good a counterfeit that the best detective could not tell him from the genuine article. He was as zealous on the ultra pro-slavery side as he is now on the anti-slavery side. If the editor was not in earnest then, what can we think of him now—is he in earnest?

The Commonwealth accuses us of changing. No wonder a man whirling round rapidly thinks every object whirling. We expect to change parties whenever our party changes from right to wrong. We shall try and not be over-much righteous, nor make ourselves over-much wise. We shall not assail a party we have acted with for some aberrations, when they are in the main right; but when they take the wrong road entirely, and will listen to neither reason nor experience, we shall get off the train.

We are a Democrat, as we understand the old apostles of that school, and a Union man always—for a Union with the consent of the people of all the States, not a Union held together by the sword, with laws to be executed over a people by standing armies. We are, in short, for such a Union as we have had, which our fathers made. We owe no allegiance to any other sort of a Union.

In our judgment, the Commonwealth & Co. are demoralizing and destroying the Union. They are the best party to make rebels we have ever read of in all history. We are apprehensive that they will make a universal rebellion and then join it themselves. After they have succeeded, we shall look out for a party to build up what they have destroyed. If we have not got the right party to do that we shall change parties. We intend to have the old Union in spite of the Commonwealth & Co., or Jeff. Davis & Co. We shall have a majority with us after a while North and South.

The people are capable of self-government, except once in a while, and the last few years are an exception. The people will stop and think themselves presently, and not follow the wild teachings of the Commonwealth & Co., which runs off after slavery, one while away to the Rocky Mountains to preserve it there, where nobody wants it, and then start on an opposite and equally impossible and improper crusade to destroy slavery over the heads of State authorities. Such contradictory and absurd teachings are suited to unsettle and destroy everything and build up nothing. That is just what the Commonwealth and its school are fit for.

☞The last news from England informs us of the signal failure of the tory party to defeat the Ministry, and that in consequence the power is greatly strengthened in their hands.

No event has happened, we might almost say since this war began, of more importance to us than this apparently not pertinent event. We have complained bitterly of the conduct of Great Britain towards us, and of the manifest sympathy and partiality she has exhibited for our revolted citizens. Our complaints have even engendered, or rather hightened, the feeling of hostility to England, and the Ministry has especially been condemned.

The course of the British Government in the Trent affair, and in turning out such vessels as the Alabama and the Florida to prey upon our commerce, has been cited again and again with feelings of increased rancor. The protection which Confederate vessels have received in British ports, and the aid which has been given the enemy in running the blockade, have not tended to soften this feeling.

It is no doubt true that Great Britain has not acted with strict impartiality—and so far we have cause of complaint. It is, however, quite another matter whether we have the right to complain of the British Ministry.

In considering what they have done, we should also have in mind what they failed to do. It is apparent that, however far the ministry may have gone in their Southern sympathies, they have not gone so far as the British people. All their feelings are loudly and actively in favor of the rebellion. The applause and commendation which Semmes receives for his exploits in the Alabama and his most defeat indicate very plainly where the feeling of the British people tends. This is but one instance. A thousand others might be given. All of them go to prove that, had the Ministry at any time chosen to yield to the popular will, and declared either in favor of intervention or that our blockade of the Southern coast was inefficient, it would have been backed up by the whole united power of the British people. We say the whole power, for we look upon Bright and others, friendly to us, as leaders without followers. They are, when separated from purely political consideration not concerning us, entirely alone.

If the Government, then, had yielded to the outcries in the Trent affair, we would certainly be much worse off, if possible, now than we are.

There has been no want of opportunities for interference and apparently justifiable interference in our affairs. It is known that before the French Emperor made his proposition for intervention, he made a first proposition to England to unite with him. If the Ministry had done so, does any one doubt but the two powers foremost in the world, by sea and land, would have taken such steps as to make their interference effectual, or that that interference would have resulted in the blockade of our ports and the prompt recognition of the independence of the Southern Confederacy?

These are facts it would be well for the next patriot to bear in mind, before he invokes curses upon the British Ministry for what they have done.

It must be remembered that they have withstood the popular clamor at home and the influence of their powerful ally, the French Emperor. They have seen many of their large cotton factories stopped, and the profits growing out of the cotton trade stopped. It is not a matter of doubt what we would have done under similar circumstances. We were always prompt in the recognition of struggling revolutionists from less cause than England has.

It is a cause of congratulation to us, therefore, that the Palmerston administration has been successful. Had it been defeated, the inauguration of a Tory administration would have been followed immediately by the opening of English ship yards to Confederate builders and purchasers of vessels. The proposition for intervention defeated the other day would have had quite another result, and we would have had more war on hands than we possibly could know just what to do with.

☞The Evansville Journal says: We are informed that a refugee named Smith had been working for a man in Union Township, and a day or two ago took it into his head to cross the river and turn guerrilla. So, yesterday morning, he went to the river and found a son of Mr. John Hawkins guarding a skiff. Smith succeeded in capturing the pistol and the skiff from the boy, and started to the Kentucky shore. Hawkins, learning the state of the case, pursued, and as Smith landed on the Kentucky shore commenced firing on him. The firing was returned, and Hawkins pursued Smith on the Kentucky shore, and it was believed he (Hawkins) had been killed, as firing was heard after he left the bank of the river. But later in the evening he returned safe, having been pursued and fired at by the guerrillas.

☞On the 21th, Lieut. Garnett, stationed near New Mexico, Mo, received information that the guerrillas had taken J. H. Davis, of the E. M., from his residence, carried him eleven miles, and then shot him. The Lieutenant immediately arrested four prominent citizens, and telegraphed Col. Sanderson, Provost Marshal General, for instructions. Before he received a reply, the guerrillas came to within three miles of Mexico, and seized twenty-five Union men. They sent one in to report to Lieut. Garnett, "that unless he released his hostages by 7 o'clock that afternoon, they would kill twenty-five Union men." The Lieutenant immediately seized twenty-five prominent rebels, and thus the matter stands.

The Lieutenant, in his report, says the whole county is alive with bushwhackers.

JUDICIAL ELECTION.—An election for Judge of the Court of Appeals in one of the districts takes place next Monday. The candidates are Messrs. Duvall and Bentoo. The former is the present incumbent. His ability and high character as a judge are well known to the bar of this State. The counties composing the district are the following: Bracken, Campbell, Kenton, Boone, Gallatin, Carroll, Trimble, Oldham, Shelby, Franklin, Woodford, Anderson, Mercer, Boyle, Garrard, Jessamine, Fayette, Scott, Harrison, Pendleton, Grant, Owen and Henry.

THE CINCINNATI GRAPE CROP.—The grape crop about Cincinnati this season does not appear to be very promising. At a recent meeting of the Horticultural Society, Mr. Mosher reported that the Delaware is not rotting this year, while other grapes, especially the Cape and Mango, are. Dr. Whipple said his Delawares are rotting, the Concords escaping. The Catawba will not produce more than one-sixth or one-tenth of a crop. Mr. Challin stated the rot attacked his Catawbas and Isabellas, and simply thinned the fruit. It was too abundant early in the season.

☞The St. Louis Democrat says the contrabands of that city who have escaped from bondage have a hard time. The boys in the streets pelt them with stones whenever they find them buckling on cellar doors or cussing themselves in lonesome alleys; the sons of St. Patrick give them a "swipe," as that Saint did the toads and snakes, and try the strength of their skulls by whacking them on the head with shillalies, and the soldiers amuse themselve by tickling the ribs of the poor darkies with the points of their bayonets.

CIGARS.—The Hartford Post says that, owing to the large tax upon tobacco and its manufacture, several of the large firms in that city will stop manufacturing. The raw material is taxed, the buyer is taxed, till, in fact, the poor cigar man has got "tax on the brain;" but the climax was reached on Tuesday, when they were informed that the tax on cigars made by them would have to be paid weekly.

☞The new metals, cæsium and rubidium, at first found only in a few mineral waters, are now known to be widely distributed in the vegetable as well as the mineral kingdom, being found in the beet root, tea or coffee, in their salts or ashes; so that, without our knowing it, we are constantly consuming two rare and valuable metals.

DROUGHT.—From a hasty examination of my Register for the last thirty years, writes Prof. Caswell to the Philadelphia Bulletin, I think the present drought in this vicinity may be set down as unprecedented. In fifty-one days, commencing with June 31, we have had but just one inch of rain.

☞The authorities of Cherbourg refuse to give up the eight wounded prisoners sent by Capt. Winslow to the hospital for treatment. They say it is an indispensable rule of French law that every prisoner of war who sets foot on French soil by that act becomes free.

☞The Mayor of Columbus, Ohio, says the number of loud women is alarmingly on the increase in that city, and calls for some action on the part of the city council to prevent or remedy it.

☞The New York Times speaks of the late raid by General Rousseau as "one of the prettiest things of the season—one of the most noteworthy cavalry raids of the whole war."

☞The New York Herald says if a man consistently opposes the Government of blundering Old Abe for any reasonable length of time, he is sure to be right at last.

☞Henry Horstman is announced as an independent Democratic candidate for the Legislature in Kenton county, at the coming August election.

☞Miss Apley hung herself to a bed-post at South Woodstock, Conn., a few days since. Her father did just so two years ago.

A Belgerine in Grief.

[Correspondence of the Louisville Democrat.]

BARDSTOWN, July 25, 1864.

Messrs. Editors: Some ten or twelve rebel horsemen dashed into this quiet, slumbering town, on Monday night last, but acted in a very unobtrusive manner—causing no one to "shell out," nor manifesting the least vindictiveness, if, indeed, they knew of it, at the almost fatal termination to which the life of one of them was subjected, upon the afternoon of the same day, at the hands of young Hardin. They remained in the town an hour or two and then departed, none knew whither. Major Fidler has been scouting around in the neighborhood since then, but has not, that we are aware of, effected any captures. The Major is, undoubtedly, a very vigilant officer, but he had no right to stop us the other day as we went sailing into town, astride of the very counterpart of the famous Rosinante of Quixotic glory, and had just arrived opposite our sweetheart's residence, with the thundering demands of "Halt! who are you? whither bound?" As to the "halt," we halted so suddenly that we found ourself astride of our steed's neck; as to who we were, we thought that a little levity might help our case considerably, so we replied in a patronizing way that we were an intimate friend of the American Eagle, and a second cousin to the Goddess of Liberty. As to the "whither bound," we felt a "little riled," and as we straightened ourself up in our saddle and glanced at the house opposite, we showed the Major clearly by our looks that we were indignant, besides being impatient, a few. With the remark that he'd "see us again," he struck off, and we strode—in, muttering to ourself—well, the ten commandments, for instance. We have been made a martyr of since we have been out here rusticating. Henceforth let no man say that we have not suffered for our country. A day or two since we visited a town a few miles distant on the railroad, and were strolling, leisurely, out the pike one evening, when we heard some one order "halt!" We halted "mary time," because we didn't detect the allusion to me. Presently a renewed yelp of "stop that, you man with the long white coat on!" We stopped "immediately," with an indignant frown in our expressive face, for our duster was the pride of our wardrobe—having the longest tails of any coat in our knowing. The Government agents hereabouts have threatened to impose a tax on its elongated appendages, and allusions have been made on divers occasions by toll gate keepers to the happy prospect of charging as double toll. We felt perbolled with anger. Said he, "My frien,' I have orders to 'rest all 'spicious characters. Who knows but what you've opened somebody's stable door, lately, and stole a beas!" We saw immediately what was up—we were taken for a guerrilla!! "My beautiful friend, we haven't exactly got a hoss in our possession, but we've got the nix thing to it," said we, as we pulled a Colt out of our pocket, and held it up to his military gaze. "We used to carry a 'hoss,'" said we, explainingly (meaning of course a "hoss pistol"), "but the times have reduced us to a colt." He explained by saying that he meant a four-legged horse. We felt that he could have no allusion to our Colt, because that was in the habit of kicking six times. He then pointed his bayonet at us and told us to march up in town and "swallow the oath of allegiance," or something other sort of compound. We asked him if we made't better fortify as we proceeded, at the same time pulling a bottle out of our pocket and handing it over. He was evidently used to fortifying—as all veterans ought to be—for, setting his gun in the fence corner, he tied his "galluses" around his waist, reared himself back and fortified immensely; in fact, threw up a heavy breast-work. He had no sooner fortified then he looked at us savagely and declared that we had stolen two horses, and that he had a great notion to "parole us to await exchange." We begged him not to roll us much, as we might get our clothes dirty a few, but that he might put us on any pay roll that brought an income other than greenbacks. Our e corr marched us in "double file" for about a hundred yards further, when we proposed to forthy again for fear of our rise, accident, and other military causes. This time our companion fortified heavily—in fact, threw up a perfect redoubt—bomb-proof, casemates, and all. After which he swore that we had stolen six horses and a mule, was a Confederate spy, and "proposed to move immediately on our works" with his bayonet. We told him not to strike us with that thing at the point indicated, for fear he might hurt our feelings. He ordered us to "fall on," "eyes right," "steady our right center," and wheel our "flanks by the left column" until we reached town. He then ordered a "charge." We didn't "charge" much, however, before we met the Provost Guard, who came very near storming our fortifications. Some officer asked us if we'd take an "oath of allegiance." We told him we'd take three—two for ourself, and one for our companion who had so kindly escorted us to town, and a half dozen to retail out in our neighborhood. He told us very savagely that he hadn't but one to spare. He gave us that one—it went very well. We took it straight. My road side friend, who was called a picker, we suppose because he picks up individuals on the road, was so mad because they wouldn't give him one, especially when we had offered to stand treat, that he couldn't stand up, but laid with his head in the gutter, his feet in an ash box, and his bayonet run through the sleeve of his jacket. He tried to commit suicide, we suppose. After we went home we related our adventure to some of our friends, and they said it was a "good joke," and laughed heartily. We begin to think that we have been slightly imposed on. We are occasionally rainted with modest inquiries of "how are you, horse-thief?" We are much perplexed. We sigh over our misfortunes continually. We can write no more. Adieu.

Yours, in deep grief,

CARLOS.

☞Lady Wortly Montague, the famous wit and beauty, made the most sarcastic observation that was ever published about her own sex. "It goes far," said my lady, "to reconcile me to being a woman, when I reflect that I am thus in no danger of ever marrying one." What if a man had said that? But see how another lady, the unhappy Countess of Lansdefelt, inverted the sentiment and turned the satire into the most delicate and generous of compliments. "I never behold a beautiful woman," said Lola Montez in one of her lectures, "but I fall in love with her myself, and wish I were a man that I might marry her."

HEADQUARTERS ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, July 25, 9 A. M., VIA WASHINGTON, July 27

No offensive movement has yet been made by any part of this army. Decisive events, however, cannot be far off. During the last three days the rebel pickets have steadily refused, in consequence of superior orders, to make the customary exchange of newspapers, doubtless because of bad news from Atlanta.

Artillery and picket firing continue actively on the right and center. The enemy's shells are becoming very annoying. Yesterday one of their 8-inch mortar shells dropped into a group of five officers, indulging in a chat in the rear of Neagle's line of General Sedlick's division, and exploded right among them. Captain Calnahn, of the Fifty-sixth Massachusetts, and Lieutenants Reves and Bowman, were very seriously injured—the latter mortally.

General Martindale has resigned; Gen. Birney assumes command of the Tenth corps; Brig. Gen. Ferrero has been mustered out on account of non-confirmation by the Senate; Gen. Julius White now commands a colored division; Gen. Bartlett, of New York, commands the First division of the Fifth corps temporarily during the absence of Gen. Griffin on sick leave; Gen. Bartlett, of Massachusetts, wounded in the Wilderness, has reported for duty and resumed command of his old brigade in the Ninth corps; General Reynolds and Gen McMillan, of Indiana, are among the late arrivals.

Advices from various sections indicate that the new loan will be received favorably. The instructions to those authorized to receive subscriptions were sent out yesterday and to-day. Subscriptions were received in some of the large cities to-day, but the amounts were not reported to the Treasury. Returns will begin to come in to-morrow. The first subscriber here is one of the Treasury clerks, who thus secures the first bonds.

Additional Paymaster, G. Folsom, said to be a defaulter in a large amount, was arrested here yesterday and sent to the Old Capitol.

A side-wheel steamer, which got aground near the shore, on the shoal in the Chesapeake Bay, below the mouth of the Potomac, a day or two ago, was burned by a roving band of rebels. The officers and crew escaped. The pilot was suspected of foul play and has been arrested.

The appearance here within a few days of a large number of allen refugees from the South indicates a recent change of policy on the part of the rebels in respect to allowing passage through the lines.

The statement that the brief letter of the President "to whom it may concern," which appears in the Niagara Falls peace correspondence, was entirely the work of Mr Seward, and the counter-statement that Mr. Seward had nothing to do with the matter, are equally at fault.

It is asserted, on good authority, that when the President received Horace Greeley's dispatch asking fresh instructions, he at once sent for Mr. Seward, who was with him for an hour or so and then returned to the State Department. Later in the afternoon, the President went to the department and had a brief interview with Mr Seward, at which the answer to be returned to Mr. Greeley, as substantially agreed upon at the first consultation, was somewhat modified. The further statement that Mr. Seward's recent visit to the army had something to do with this peace business, is pronounced false.

At this writing the rebel movement in the valley has not developed any serious form, notwithstanding sensation reports from Baltimore and Lower Pennsylvania. As reported in this correspondence on Monday, the enemy fell upon Crook's military forces at Winchester on Sunday, and he retired through Martinsburg to the river. There was very little fighting, for the rebel force was so manifestly superior that Crook did not deem it wise to risk an engagement. Since Sunday the enemy has been pushing out small bodies of troops in various directions, but thus far there is nothing more than skirmish fighting, without material loss to either side.

They threaten Harper's Ferry, but do not command it. They have been in possession of Martinsburg, but many reports to-day assert that it is again in our hands. They have not crossed the river, and, so far as is known, do not hold any of the fords. One important military authority avows the belief that a considerable portion of Hill's corps has been sent up from Petersburg, and that a movement into Pennsylvania is intended; such belief, however, it is understood, does not prevail at the War Department. It is regarded as probable that a small body of troops may have been sent ten days ago to the relief of Early and Breckinridge, and may now be operating with those commands to cover the movement of booty to Richmond, and to distract the attention of Grant.

[Special Dispatch to the Cincinnati Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, July 27.

There is an ominous stillness to-day in the city, though a deep current of activity is everywhere visible. It is difficult to learn anything about what is doing or going to be done. Up to the present writing, the raiders are still on the south side of the Potomac, and our forces hold all the fords. I am reliably informed the authorities here understand this to be the same force that made the previous raid, with the addition of Imboden's cavalry and two new divisions from Richmond.

This would swell their number to something like 50,000. If this conclusion be correct, I suspect the enemy will not be content merely to hold and harvest the Shenandoah Valley, but will push further north after they have cleaned that district. It is not safe, however, to make any predictions yet, either as to the number or intention of the rebels. The tendency always is in such times to overestimate.

PHILADELPHIA, July 27.

The news from the new raid continues suspiciously scanty. It is a consoling circumstance, however, that we have few or no panic-stricken stories from fugitive borderers. There can't be much of an invasion, or we should have heard from these people some time ago.

LOCKING UP THE WINE.—Alexander, fourth Earl of Kellie, was rather a hard liver. He married Anne, daughter of the third Earl of Balcarras, and, in the first confidences of married love, intrusted to her keeping the key of the wine cellar. Lady Kellie, on the first occasion that he invited his boon companions to dinner and drink, gave out as much wine as she thought good for them, and walked quietly up to Carnee with the key of the wine-cellar in her pocket, to talk her four hours with the minister's wife. The party soon discussed the modicum she had left out for their consumption; and on his lordship sending for more, he learned how matters stood. He had the cellar-door forced forthwith from its hinges, and desired the servant to take it to the manse, with his compliments to her ladyship, and, if she asked any questions, to say "that it was the cellar-door come to look for the key."

THIEVISH ROBINS.—A correspondent of the Circular, Oneida, N. Y., says:

Yesterday some of our boys, in high glee, brought into my room an astounding conglomeration of sticks, straws, mud and—ladies' collars! This I soon made out to be a robin's nest. The collars—light strips of lace, crochet work and plain linen—were woven into the body of the nest into all sorts of tangles, and hung around it like beggars' streamers. Our young ladies and some of the older ones have missed their collars lately at a wonderful rate, and were beginning to think that thieves were about. And behold! an industrious robin had built her house of them! The boys saw the robin carrying one off from the grass-plot where they were drying, followed her and found twenty-nine of the missing collars woven into one nest.

A PRACTICAL SOLDIER.—A Christian Commission brother was congratulating a wounded man upon the fact that he owed the salvation of his life to a pocket Testament, which as; ply intervened between a rebel bullet and his short ribs. He promised to give the soldier another Testament, and hoped it would be instrumental in saving not only his life but his soul. His remarks were overheard by a New Yorker, who was suffering from a slight but smarting wound in the side, and expressed himself as follows:—"Look here, partner, if it had not been for a euchre deck, I don't know where I'd have been. It didn't hurt me much, but it knocked the ace of spades and king of hearts higher than a kite. Can't you get a feller a new pack?"

GUERRILLA OUTRAGE.—We learn from a reliable source that on Monday night the guerrillas made their appearance in the vicinity of Henderson, and a number of women, or men dressed in women's clothes, went to the house of a man named Hildebraud, an honest, peaceable, hard-working German, and demanded supper, after obtaining which they proceeded to break up everything destructible about the place.

TO RENDER THE TASTE OF MEDICINE PALATABLE.—It has been ascertained by M. Graw that the intensely bitter and nauseous taste of many drugs may be completely disguised by mixing them with chloroform. It is claimed that even the bitter taste of quinia and the peculiar odor of asafetida can be thus destroyed.

☞Guerrillas are said to be very thick and daring in Anderson county, Missouri.

The Removal of Johnston and the Appointment of Hood.

[From the Richmond Sentinel, July 21.]

The very few instances in which the President has exercised the power of removal, and the known notorious incompetency of the officers heretofore removed by him, should go far to satisfy every one that nothing but the most urgent State necessity has compelled him to relieve General Johnston of his command. The fewness of removals, considered in connection with the success of our arms, shows that the President is a good judge of military merit and ability, makes good appointments, and has seldom reason to repent his selection. We believe that where he has acted solely on the dictates of his own judgment he has made no mistakes; but much deference is due to the opinions and wishes of large bodies of the people, not because they are the best judges of military worth and efficiency, but because it is sometimes better to do a wrong, and satisfy the people, than to do right and dissatisfy them. The President has had ample opportunity to test the military worth of Johnston; those who condemn the removal have had comparatively none; and no matter what had been their opportunities, they know nothing about military affairs or the qualifications of military men.

We all voted for the President as our ruler because we thought him best fitted to command, and we to obey. We who selected him to drive the car of State should not now participate and embarrass him by seizing hold of the reins ourselves. Nothing is more dangerous than for a nervous, scary rider to seize hold of the reins when the horse threatens to kick or run off.

Republican Government is a monstrous and absurd failure if the people have no faith in the men they select for office, and find it necessary to dictate to and rule their rulers. All the attempts to dictate measures and make appointments for the President proceed from an ignorant, reckless and corrupt spirit of demagogueism. In the beginning of the war it was exhibited in a perfect tornado of anger with the President, because he preferred making appointments of men as officers who had military knowledge and qualifications, rather than of those who knew nothing about military affairs—and who were too old to learn anything about them—for the favorites with the ignorant demagogues, who abused West Point and the President, were stump orators over fifty. Time has since amply proved that West Pointers—men who have learned the science of war at school and its practice in camp—are best fitted to command large armies. Old stump orators may stumble into victories, but they will generally fail; and it is almost treasonable to place them in command when their failures may do serious harm.

The people have seen enough of Johnston's retreats to satisfy them that, if let alone by the Government, he had no idea of making a stand this side the Gulf of Mexico. If he could not hold the strong position of Kenesaw Mountain, much less would he have held the weak one about Atlanta. The people do not generally know that all the while that Johnston has been retreating before Sherman he has had an army approaching nearer in numbers to that of his adversary than Lee ever had when he has won his great victories. Indeed, at Dalton, and ever since he left there, his army has been large enough to justify and render it his duty to deliver battle.

The Whig makes a new issue. The ground of its complaint is not the removal of Johnston, but the preference which, it supposes, was given to Hood over Hardee. Does the Whig know whether Hardee would have accepted the appointment? In fact, Hardee had been tendered and had refused the command of the army of the Tennessee.

Be this as it may, the President, after anxious consultation with the best military authorities, concluded to appoint Hood. No man in the Confederacy was so much interested in retaining Johnston in command, if he were likely to win a victory, as the President. No man had so good an opportunity to form a correct opinion of his merits. He came, under these circumstances, to the deliberate conclusion that Johnston was unfit to command, and removed him. If there be any error in the case it is that the removal was not made long ago. Lincoln delights in taking off heads as much as the King of Dahomey or the Emperor of Hayti. President Davis has a nice sense of honor, sets a high value on reputation and removes none but the notoriously incompetent.

It is because he is so reluctant to remove officers that he is cautious and fastidious in selecting and appointing them. We believe the appointment of General Hood a good one, not only from what we know of his past history, but because he has been selected by the President, who seems to be an admirable judge of the relative merits of men, and finds no occasion to repent to-day for the appointments made yesterday.

The Attempt by Rebel Emissaries to Rob the Calais Bank, Maine.

[From the St. Croix Herald.]

Monday was a day of excitement in our city. It was known for several days previous that a raid of some kind was in contemplation by rebel roughs who had recently left St. John, and by means of the vigilant efforts of our Consul in that city, the people here were enabled to prepare a suitable reception for the invaders. It was known that the bank would be assailed first. A portion of Capt. Flint's company of State Guards was detailed for service. Pickets were stationed at different points to give the alarm. At about 12 o'clock the robbers went to the bank, and while their leader pretended that he wanted to exchange some gold for greenbacks, it was noticed that his hand glided suspiciously towards a revolver in his side pocket. The cashier immediately gave the alarm, the guards rushed in, seized the three men and escorted them in triumph to the Municipal Court room. The excitement was intense. There were good grounds for believing the robbers had accomplices in the vicinity, and the State Guards and citizens were soon on hand in a body to repel any invasion or depredation.

The prisoners were somewhat chapfallen at first, but soon put on very defiant airs, claiming that if their twenty-five associates had been on hand as expected, they would not only have robbed the bank, but have committed other depredations and burned the city. The ringleader had a Confederate flag in his pocket, which he said he intended to hoist on the hights near the city. This flag was captured by Capt. W. B. Taylor. It was new, and if manufactured in Dixie, has been well preserved. A large crowd of people collected in the vicinity, and there was a strong disposition to deal summarily with the offenders, for it is well known that they were ready for plunder, fire or murder in order to accomplish their infamous designs.

In the afternoon, the prisoners were examined before Judge Corford. A letter was found on one of them wherein the raiders, under fictitious names, state that they are escaped prisoners; that they are bent upon having money, and they had prepared a receipt to be left at the bank for the money they intended to take, but did not. In that letter they said: "Thank your stars that other men did not come up, or your town would have been burned." William Collins, the ringleader, is a tall, keen-eyed man, with a countenance indicative of treachery and baseness. He claims to be a captain in the Fifteenth Mississippi, but was recognized here yesterday by a St. John man, who states that Collins has been in St. John for some months; that he was born near Loch Lomond, and that he has often worn a rebel uniform of late. The two other prisoners gave their names as Jones and Phillips. The former said he belonged to the First Missouri regiment, and that his wife and child were murdered by the Union men under Jim Lane. He had a youthful look, and his statement is probably as unreliable as that of his associate in villainy, neither of whom has, it is believed, ever been in the rebel service.

The testimony of the three prisoners established the fact that they were determined upon plunder, pillage and robbery, to be carried out on a large scale, if their associates had joined them; and, as Collins remarked in his evidence, they were determined to accomplish their purpose, "peaceably if they could, but forcibly if they must." The prisoner, who gave his name as Phillips, said he had been promised a chance to go on a piratical craft, Collins, when asked, said he could not produce his commission as a Confederate officer. The prisoners were ordered to recognize in the sum of $20,000. They were sent to Machias jail under a strong guard, where they arrived at half-past three o'clock this morning. When they were taken from the court room much indignation was manifested outside, and many evinced a disposition to deal summarily with them. There is no doubt that the prisoners intended to murder the cashier, and this supposition is strengthened by their own evidence. Rumors were rife last evening that a large number of raiders from St. John and vicinity (of whom the three prisoners were the advance guard) intended making a descent upon the city by water. Orders were received from the Adjutant General at Augusta to enroll fifty men belonging to the State Guards here for service night and day. This order is now in force. Our city again wears a martial aspect. The remaining invaders will meet with a warm reception.

Virginia "Blue Laws," 1663.

The Boston Transcript of Friday contains the following communication:

We have all heard more or less of the "Blue Laws" of Connecticut and of the "Black Code" of the South. But I did not know till since the present war commenced that any such religio legal enactments had ever been made by the Southern chivalry of the Ditch land, as we have understood by this term of "Blue Laws." Some two years since, a soldier of the Potomac army, on entering the courthouse in Warrick county, Va., found the old records of the court, which he forthwith confiscated and sent to me two pages, from which the following items are copied.

The paper is quite thick, and measures 16 by 10 inches. The chirography is peculiar, and there are twenty-six entries of decisions made by that court, under the date of October 21, 1663. This MS. is interesting, not only from its remote antiquity, but also on account of the information which it gives us as to the relig

John, alias Pat. Malone, Mike Manning, and Thomas Smith, feloniously stealing article of furniture belonging to Ann Kane; $100 to answer misdemeanor.

BARRACKS NEWS.—Yesterday was an exceedingly dull day at the barracks. The receipts were fourteen convalescents from various points, nineteen men from Brown Hospital, twenty-six convalescents and one man from Jefferson Hospital, and seven desperate characters from St. Louis, who are to be tried before court martial. Their names are Frank Roe and George H. Johnston, company L, Fourth Missouri; J. F. Knowles, company K, Forty first Illinois; Henry Mesher, company K, Seventieth Indiana; Frank Brown, company B, One Hundred and Twenty third Illinois; John Blastom, company C, Eighteenth Missouri, and Hiram Horte, company G, Third Missouri. The transfers were one hundred and twenty seven convalescents to different points, eight convalescents to Hartford, Conn., to be mustered out of the service, five prisoners sent to Nashville, and one guerrilla sent to Bowlinggreen under sentence of death.

A WOMAN IN MAN'S CLOTHING.—Yesterday a woman, who gave her name as Kate Brien, was arrested at the Louisville and Nashville depot, dressed in the uniform of a soldier. She stated that she was on her way to the front to join the army, and that she had a brother in the Fifth Ohio. She also stated that she had four other brothers in the naval service, and that it was her earnest desire to enlist in the army, and share the trials and privations of an active campaign with those she loved. Miss Kate is a young girl, not over fifteen or sixteen years of age, and is of very prepossessing appearance. She will be returned to her home in St. Louis.

ARRESTED FOR RUNNING OFF SLAVES.—Yesterday, B. F. Linpeller, a white man, and Samuel Denny, a free negro, were arrested upon a charge of running off negroes, the slaves of different persons of this county. Within the last few months the citizens of this State have suffered severely from this species of robbery, which has evidently been carried on by a regularly organized band, consisting of white persons and negroes, both free and slave. These parties, who were arrested by the military authorities, were sent to the barracks, where they will be confined until their case can be fully investigated.

DAN CASTELLO'S CIRCUS.—The great show of Dan Castello having met with unparalleled success at Cincinnati, will return to our city and give three performances, commencing on next Tuesday night. This is one of the best shows that travels, as those who saw the company before will testify. The celebrated trained horse Czar is one of the finest animals ever introduced in the arena. The Conklin Brothers are unsurpassed; while Johnson, as an equestrian, is admired by all. Remember that this great show commences in our city on Tuesday evening.

☞ We learn that the Two-Mile House, on the Bardstown Pike, was yesterday closed by the military authorities, and the entire stock of liquors confiscated. The proprietor, Mr. Baldwin, was arrested and placed in the military prison. We understand that for some time past soldiers have been in the habit of going to this house and procuring liquors.

DR. GILPIN NOT DEAD.—The rumor which we published in the Democrat yesterday, regarding the death of Dr. Gilpin, turns out to be erroneous. The Doctor, we are happy to inform our readers, is alive and enjoying fine health.

☞ Mark Gilpin, who keeps a barroom on the wharf, between Fifth and Sixth streets, was arrested yesterday for selling liquor to soldiers. His house was closed and his entire stock of liquors, which was small, confiscated.

☞ Mr. Gloson Mallory was not a member of the House of Representatives, as stated in yesterday's paper, but Senator from this county. He was elected to that position last August.

☞ The regular monthly meeting of the Board of School Trustees will be held at the Council Chamber next Monday evening.

☞ The train from Nashville arrived on time last evening. There was nothing of interest transpiring along the line.

☞ Yesterday was an exceedingly dull day, with but little of interest transpiring in either civil or military circles.

☞ W. H. Ehrich has our thanks for Cincinnati papers in advance of the mails.

☞ When you want job printing come to the Democrat Office, see samples and leave your orders.

WARNING.

We will prosecute any one buying old copies of the Democrat or News from any one except at the desk.

Important to News Dealers.

We understand that General Sherman has issued an order by which any person who desires to can sell papers at the front, thus destroying the monopoly which has so long inconvenienced the army, and deprived it of a full supply of papers.

Persons can procure any number of papers at this office at the usual rate of three dollars per hundred; postage added, if by mail.

MEETING OF THE COUNCIL LAST NIGHT.

The Democrat and Journal Elected City Printers.

Other Interesting Matters.

Pursuant to adjournment on the evening of the 14th, the City Council met at the usual hour last night, and as the President, W. F. Barrett, was absent, T. C. Tucker was called to the chair. A message from the Mayor was read, vetoing the resolution passed at the last meeting of the Council, allowing persons money for back taxes over paid. The message was adopted.

Several other messages from the Mayor were received, which were approved.

Captain Jessel sent in his resignation as Salt Inspector, which was referred.

A petition was received from the street hands, desiring an advance of their wages, in view of the depreciation of the currency and the advance of all articles necessary for life. They asked that the wages be advanced to $2 for scrapers, shovelers, etc., and carts $5 per day, which is an advance of less than fifteen per cent. The petition was adopted, and the extra wages granted.

Several ordinances were passed for the improvement of streets, in both the Western and Eastern Districts.

A resolution was passed that the Council, at half-past nine o'clock Thursday night, go into joint session for the election of City Printers and eight additional supernumerary policemen, which were provided for by an ordinance lately passed.

An ordinance was offered appropriating $30,000 for the payment of old liabilities; for the payment of sewers already contracted, $15,000; for the sewering and drainage of Beargrass, $15,000; for the bowldering of Eighth and Ninth streets from Market to Broadway, $19,000; and for the bowldering of Eighth and Ninth streets, from Market to Broadway, $19,000; and for the bowldering of Second and Third streets, from the river to Market street, $19,000.

The second section of the ordinance provides that the Commissioners of the Sinking Fund be authorized to sell 711 shares of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, belonging to the city, and the appropriation of $16,798, due to the city on dividends, to the payment of all dues on the above work as they shall fall due. The ordinance was discussed at some length. The hour for joint session having arrived, the discussion of this matter was suspended for the present.

JOINT SESSION.

In accordance with the resolution, the Council assembled in joint session for the election of City Printers and eight supernumerary policemen.

The first thing in order was the election of City Printers. The following papers were put in nomination: Democrat, Journal, Anzeiger, and Union Press. On the first ballot the Democrat received 20 votes, the Journal 11, the Anzeiger 8, and the Press 3. The Democrat was declared elected.

No other paper having received a majority of the votes, a second ballot was taken, with the following result: Journal, 13; Anzeiger, 11; Press, 2.

There being no election on this ballot, the Council proceeded to a third ballot, which resulted as follows: Journal, 13; Anzeiger, 12; Press, 1.

There was no election on this ballot, and according to resolution, the Press being the least, was dropped. The following was the result of the fourth ballot: Journal, 14; Anzeiger, 12. The Democrat and Journal were then declared duly elected City Printers for the ensuing year.

Upon motion, the joint session arose without going into an election for the Supernumerary Police.

After the joint session, the previous ordinance was taken up and passed, by a vote of 17 to none.

The ordinance for the election of eight Supernumerary Policemen was so amended that the election should take place in the month of August instead of July.

A communication from the Mayor was read in regard to the restrictions on the trade of the city.

A resolution was passed, that a committee of citizens be appointed to wait upon Major General Burbridge and Brigadier General Ewing, and petition them to use their best efforts and endeavors to have said order modified or revoked.

The following committee was appointed: James Guthrie, W. B. Belknap, Arthur Peter, James Speed, Henry Dent, Mayor Kaye and W. F. Barrett, President of the Board of Common Council.

A resolution was passed appointing a committee of two from the lower and one from the upper Board, to purchase another steam engine, to be stationed in the central portion of the city. Messrs. Downing and Hubbard were appointed from the lower Board. No appointment was made from the Board of Aldermen.

A resolution passed the Board of Aldermen to increase the pay of the quarrymen at the workhouse to $2 75 per day, and also to increase the pay of the keeper of the workhouse $50 per year.

Without transacting other business of importance, the Council adjourned to meet again Thursday night, August 11th.

REBEL PRISONERS ESCAPED.—We learn that Capt. J. Jewett, privates C. P. Lewis, John Edwards, and J. P. Bates, who had been sent to Lexington for trial, made their escape from the prison there, a few days ago, since which time they have not been heard from. The notorious swindler, Lieut. Col. Hamilton, endeavored to escape while being conveyed from there to Camp Nelson, by jumping from the cars. He was shot and killed.

CHIEF JUSTICE DUVAL.—This eminent jurist and accomplished gentleman, an ornament to the appellate bench, and the pride of the Kentucky bar, will be re-elected on next Monday by an overwhelming majority. There will doubtless be some secret and false reports gotten up on the day of the election to defeat him, but the people will not listen to them. They are determined to elect him.

☞ Yesterday a little boy not over eight years of age, was arrested upon the charge of robbing another boy of forty odd dollars. Owing to the extreme youth of the boy he was released, as the stolen money was recovered.

☞ The train from Nashville last evening brought four hundred and forty-four prisoners of war, who were lately captured by General Sherman. They were sent to the military prison.

PERSONAL.—Adjt. Gen. Lorenzo Thomas, Major-General Burbridge, Brigadier General Ransom and Brigadier-General Veatch are in the city and stopping at the Louisville Hotel.

OPERATIONS OF GUERRILLAS.

Shelbyville Stage Captured—Other Depredations.

The guerrillas in this neighborhood are becoming bolder and bolder each day, until at last parties of four or five will advance to points within a few miles of the city, where they have committed the most daring robberies, and yet have succeeded in making their escape. The stage, on its last trip from this place to Shelbyville, arrived without interruption at Simpsonville. At that point a party of four men made an attack upon the stage, in which there were three ladies, one of whom was so badly frightened that her life is despaired of. The robbers, after taking possession of the stage, tore open the mail bags and carried off a large quantity of mail matter, but offered no indignities to the passengers. After leaving Simpsonville, they proceeded to Willich's stable, two miles from that place, and stole therefrom two fine horses belonging to the stage company.

After leaving there they proceeded to the little town of Boston, where they robbed a number of stores. They then went to the tollgate nearest that point, and waking up the gate keeper, demanded of him what money he had. Seeing that he was entirely at the mercy of the robbers, he turned over to them what money he had, some $4,800.

They next proceeded to the little town of Long Run; but in the meantime their number had increased some ten or twelve; as soon as they entered that place they commenced a wholesale species of robbery. The store of J. P. Malone was broken open, and the cash drawer robbed of what it had, and a large quantity of goods were also taken. Other stores in the same town were entered and robbed of various articles. The party then paid a visit to the postoffice, broke open what letters were in the office, and carried off all stamps and envelopes in the building. They then informed the postmaster that they would return in a few days, and if they found any more stamps or government envelopes there they would execute him and destroy his house.

After leaving the Long Run they went to the first toll gate, and robbed the keeper of the gate of what money he had, $11, besides his pistol and shot-gun. From the neighborhood of this place they stole some five or six horses.

When they left this place they stated that they were going to Fisherville, and moved off in that direction. It is not known to what band these men belonged, but our informant thinks that they are a portion of Jesse's "Gallant Three Hundred." We have heard of several other raids of guerrillas, but they could be traced to no reliable source.

LOUISVILLE DEMOCRAT JOB OFFICE.—We are now prepared to do all kinds of job printing, plain and in colors, at prices to suit the times and at the shortest notice.

ARKANSAS RIVER.—The Confederate forces in the vicinity of Pine Bluff, says the Memphis Argus of the 24th, recently attacked that point, repeating again and again their endeavor to capture it, but without avail. Failing in that, they annoyed and worried the garrison, to enable them to cross men to the other side of the river below. They succeeded in getting 1,400 men over before their operations were checked. It is a mistake that the enemy had saved the steamer New Igo to use her as a ferry-boat. She was burnt, as a scouting party sent down to examine found the remains of the boat. The rebels had crossed in a flat-boat. Among ten prisoners taken by the Union forces in the various skirmishes, we find the names of Henry Halliburton, son of Judge Halliburton, of Arkansas county, and Jordan Embree, formerly of the Arkansas State Senate.

☞ Lieutenant General John B. Hood, the successor of Joe Johnston, is a native of Kentucky, and graduated at West Point in 1843, though without special marks of honor. On his graduation he was assigned as brevet Second Lieutenant to the Fourth infantry. In 1855 he was transferred to the Second cavalry, with a detachment of which he had a gallant conflict with a body of Camanche and Lipan Indians near the head of the San Pedro river, Texas, in July, 1857. In this affair he was wounded. The next year he was promoted to be First Lieutenant. He resigned his commission in April, 1861, and was appointed a Brigadier General in the Southern army. For a long time he served in Lee's army, and, on being promoted Major General, was assigned to command the Tuird division of Longstreet's corps.

"LOUISVILLE, July 27.

"Early this morning six guerrillas captured Captain George W. Womack, Provost Marshal of Lonisville, and his clerk, near the residence of the former, at Middletown, twelve miles from here. The guerrillas administered some sort of an oath on behalf of the Southern Confederacy, and then released their prisoners."

The above we clip from the Associate Press report in the Cincinnati papers. It is true Capt. Womack was captured, but he did not take the oath as stated. Capt. W. will prepare a statement of the facts, which we will publish.

A NOTORIOUS GUERRILLA KILLED.—We are informed that Capt. Blackburn, of Stokes' cavalry, having heard that Pomp. Carney, a noted guerrille, was near Short Mountain, left Liberty, DeKalb county, Tennessee, Monday night, with a detachment of his command, and on Tuesday succeeded in bringing his game to bay. Carney and five of his men were killed, and their bodies brought to Liberty. Carney is the person who broke up the election at Smithville last March.

☞ The Evansville Journal learns from a reliable source, that on Monday night the guerrillas made their appearance in the vicinity of Henderson, and a number of women, or men dressed in women's clothes, went to the house of a man named Hildebrand, an honest, peaceable, hardworking German, and demanded supper, after obtaining which they proceeded to break up everything destructible about the place.

☞ Captain Kesterson, commander of a company of guerrillas, and severely wounded, and captured near Columbus, Kentucky, three weeks since, having fully recovered from his wounds, has been tried, and condemned to death. His execution was to have taken place at Paducah, yesterday. There was considerable feeling exhibited by the citizens of Paducah in regard to the matter.

☞ There was a fire in Atlanta, Ga., on the night of the 19th inst., which, the Appeal says, destroyed property to the amount of $500,000. During the progress of the fire, the buildings were pillaged. It was the work of incendiaries.

INQUEST No. 240—Held July 27th, 1864, on Green street, near Campbell, on the body of Andy Stuck, aged 46 years. Verdict—"Apoplexy, caused by intemperance."

J. C. GILL, Coroner.

☞ We learn that there is a considerable rebel force in the neighborhood of Jackson, Tenn., but in what direction they intended to move our informant did not say.

☞ The city election takes place next Monday. The principal contest, and the one in which the most interest is manifested, is that of City Marshal.

☞ See advertisement, for sale or exchange. A good bargain can be had by giving immediate attention.

☞ Mr. Charles Taylor has our thanks for St. Louis papers.

LOCAL NOTICES.

☞ Real estate buyers will bear in mind Mr. C. C. Spencer's sale this afternoon of a business house on the corner of Main and Second. Attention is also called to his morning sale, at auction rooms, of furniture, buggy, harness, wagon and cow and calf.

☞ Mr. Mork will continue his auction sale to-day, July 29th, and next week, until everything is sold.

☞ Mrs. H Wasbenheimer will hear some welcome news by calling on G. Heinig, (tinner) Market street, between Tenth and Eleventh streets. jy28 d2*

☞ For diarrhea and dysentery we recommend Dr. Strickland's Anti-Cholera Mixture. It is a certain cure. Give it a trial. Soldiers, keep a bottle of it by you.

☞ Ladies can find the latest styles of hats for themselves and children at Green & Green's, corner Main and Fourth. This house has original styles, and always obtain their Eastern goods from the most celebrated houses. d&n

☞ Parents should get Hurley's popular worm candy to give their children when they wish a reliable remedy for worms. We hear it spoken of very highly. Ja23 d&n

☞ The best cartes de visite, gems and baby pictures are made at the Gem Gallery, No. 235 Market street. Cheapest place in the city. Go there. d&n*

J. V. GILBERT, AUCTION AND COMMISSION MERCHANT, 418 MAIN STREET, NORTH SIDE.—I will from this date continue the above business alone, my former partner, Mr. Joseph J. Hagboff, having withdrawn from the firm. His honorable manner of attempting to carry on the business alone (as his advertisements of the 17th, 18th and 19th led many to believe he would) having failed, he has gone into retirement. I am, in consideration of the above facts, forced to continue the business, and am a solicitor for patronage in the above business. All business intrusted to me will be attended to with promptness and dispatch.

Notice to Water Consumers,

OFFICE LOUISVILLE WATER COMPANY.
LOUISVILLE, KY., July 25, 1864.

AT A MEETING OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS of the Louisville Water Company, held at their office, on the 25th July, 1864, the following rules of the Company were ordered to be published, viz:

RULE 9. "The use of street sprinklers, or hand hose shall be restricted to four (4) hours in each day; in the morning, between the hours of six and eight o'clock during the whole year; and in the evening, from the 1st March to the 1st September, between the hours of five and seven o'clock, and from the 1st September to the 1st March between the hours of 3½ and 5½ o'clock, and at no other time, day or night, under the penalty of immediately shutting off the supply of water from the premises."

RULE 10. "If the hose box is found out of order, cap off, hose attachments leaking, if converted into jets, suffered to run when not in use, or given into the hands of children to play with, the supply of water will be shut off without previous notice."

RULE 11. "All consumers or subscribers to the use of the water, shall keep their own service pipe, stop-cocks, key-boxes and covers, and other apparatus in good repair, and shall prevent all unnecessary waste of water. If the service pipe is found leaking, requiring the water to be shut off for making repairs, and the cocks to the key-boxes missing, the key-boxes filled with earth, stones, &c., the consumer or subscriber shall incur any extra expense attending the shutting off the water, and have the key-boxes properly repaired before the water shall be again turned on the premises."

RULE 12. "Hereafter no permit will be granted for street sprinklers alone, but only in connection with the ordinary supplies for domestic and manufacturing purposes will street sprinklers be allowed. From and after January 1st, 1865, all premises having street sprinklers only, will be assessed at the established rates for all purposes for which water is used on the said premises, or else the street sprinkler wholly discontinued."

RULE 13. "In case of violation of any of the Water Company's rules regulating the supply and distribution of water, the subscriber or consumer violating or permitting violations of said rules shall have the supply of water shut off without notice, and not turned on again until after the payment of a fine (not to exceed $10), which shall defray all expenses attending the correction of such violation and giving satisfactory assurance that future abuses will not be committed."

The Board have directed that these rules of the Company shall be strictly enforced. It is to be hoped that water consumers will recognize their justice and propriety, and cheerfully conform to them. A person taking a street sprinkler and paying for the use of it has the right to sprinkle one-half the street in front of his own premises. He has no right to sprinkle in front of his neighbor's; nor has he the right to wash the front and flood the gutters in front of his own premises; nor has he the right to furnish water to his neighbor in either small or large quantities. A. HARRIS,
President of Louisville Water Company.

N. B. Any consumer wishing to use water in greater quantities, or for other purposes than contemplated in the original permit, will be allowed to do so by calling at the office and paying for the same. jy29 dcod5

ON SATURDAY, JULY 30TH, PRECISE. ly at 11 o'clock, A. M., will be sold to the highest bidder, on the premises, a substantially improved villa, with ample and beautiful grounds, known as "Bellavista," containing 20 acres No 1 Beargrass land, situated near the Hardeman pike, 4½ miles out. The improvements consist of two houses, built of stone in Gothic style, with good out-buildings, fencing, &c. The main house contains two paved cellars under the whole house, hall, hay-house, back porch, two rooms, each 9 by 18 feet, and four rooms each 18 by 20 feet, with good garret above. The house is modern, and of a grain throughout. The servants' house contains kitchen, wash-room, larder-room, dining-room, and two good servants' rooms above. A filtered cistern (250 barrels) near the door; and a well of never failing water near. The place is noted for its fine fruits, some 200 bearing trees, among which the pears are unexcelled. There is a fine young orchard of some 1,200 trees of choice varieties of selected fruits, coming on, which will make the place a valuable paying fruit farm in a short time. The yard is well set out in shade trees, fruit trees of different kinds, evergreens, rare shrubs, flowers, vines, &c. Four acres in a nice bluegrass pasture.

Commissioner's Sale.

BY VIRTUE OF A JUDGMENT OF THE NELSON Circuit Court, rendered at the March term, 1864, in the case of W. W. Metcalfe, Thomas H. Hosier, &c., against the Bardstown and Louisville Railroad Company, I will, as Commissioner of said Court, lease or sell the property of said Railroad Company, as set out in the pleadings and judgment. The leasing or sale to be made at the Courthouse in Bardstown, on Monday the 8th day of August next (being County Court day).

The entire road property, franchises, &c., will be first offered for lease to the person or persons who will take same for the shortest term of years, and give bond with sufficient security, conditioned to pay the Plaintiffs the sum so adjudged to be now due, within six months from the day of leasing, and to pay the semi-annual interest on the mortgage bonds, as the same may fall due; and pay the principle debt of $30,000 also when it falls due; and also to keep in good repair the road, cars and other property not consumable by use, such as fuel, oil, &c., and return the road property in such condition as it now is. A lien to be retained on the TERM to secure the performance of the lease.

If the judgment cannot be made by a LEASE of the said road property, franchises, &c., for a term of years, upon the terms above indicated, then the same will be sold absolutely to the highest bidder: the purchaser to give bond with sufficient security, conditioned to pay the amounts decreed as due, within six months from the day of sale, bearing interest, and having the force of a judgment; and to pay the accruing instalments of interest as the same fall due upon the mortgage debt; and finally to pay also the $30,000 principal upon the falling due thereof, to-wit, January 1st, 1870. Liens to be retained upon the entire property, &c., to secure the rights of the parties.

The amount of this decree due, and to become due, will not exceed $59,000, whereas the iron upon the road bed alone is estimated by competent judges to be now worth $80 000. The commissioner therefore feels fully justified in assuring the public that this is one of the very best chances for profitable investments that can anywhere be found.

WASHINGTON, July 28.

The mail steamer John Brooks arrived here this morning from City Point, which place he left yesterday morning at one o'clock.

All was quiet in front of Petersburg at that time, but on Tuesday movements of the rebels were discovered, which, although not fully developed, indicated that they were attempting to flank Butler's position on the right, or were endeavoring to gain Harrison's Landing for the purpose of getting in his rear.

The Star learns that the proper disposition of troops was immediately made to check them and find out their intentions.

Artillery firing commenced at Point of Rocks, early on the evening of Tuesday, and continued all night.

Our gunboats were said to have been engaged, and most firing was doubtless done by the gunboats.

Firing was also going on near Bermuda, and it was reported that the rebels were posted three miles from that place.

Parties who were at Butler's headquarters on Saturday night say that the roar of musketry and artillery was incessant.

Yesterday when Brooks came down the river the firing was still going on, but seemed to have somewhat slackened.

Early yesterday morning Grant was engaged in making a proper disposition of his troops, with the intention of foiling any rebel movement.

Officers attached to Brooks' command state that firing was heard by them on Tuesday; it was more heavy and incessant than any heard by them during Grant's campaign.

NEW YORK, July 28.

The Herald's City Point correspondent of the 26th says very heavy and rapid artillery firing has been going on in the direction of Foster's front, on the north bank of James River, since daylight this morning, and at intervals volleys of musketry can be distinctly heard for several days past. The rebels have been reinforcing heavily at that point, as if they suspected us of intending to mass forces there and advance suddenly on Richmond from that quarter.

All remains quiet in the Petersburg front. Troops are by no means entirely inactive.

The movements and disposition of our forces is not at present legitimate matter for newspapers.

CLARKSVILLE, July 28--8 P. M.

Parties of rebel cavalry are crossing the Cumberland, making their way into Kentucky.

Yesterday a party of 125 crossed a few miles above, under Col. Johnson, another smaller party crossed below. They were well armed and mounted, and had regular officers.

The large railroad elevator and adjoining sheds, containing 2,000 barrels of flour and nearly 100 000 bushels of grain, was entirely destroyed with its contents by fire, this evening. It is supposed to have caught fire from sparks of passing locomotives. Insured partially.

A stage from Hagerstown has just arrived. I learn from passengers that all is quiet on the upper Potomac.

The rebel scouts have disappeared from the line of the Potomac, and it is said they have fallen back beyond Martinsburg.

Gen. Averill, I now learn, is with his command and uninjured.

Gen. Mulligan is undoubtedly killed.

BALTIMORE, July 28.

The rebels have not yet shown the slightest sign of pushing their incursions across the Potomac, and in consequence Maryland is quieting down.

The Union men of Frederick who was designedly taking leave, and who had sent away their plate, &c., have now made up their minds to remain.

The times correspondent at Frederick telegraphs that persons arriving there from Hagerstown this afternoon, report that no rebel who have shown themselves any where on the Potomac.

Col. Mulligan's fate not yet known, but a flag of truce was to day sent in the rebel line to ascertain regarding him.

[Special to the Tribune.]

NEW YORK, July 28.

The Government has received dispatches from Sherman to-day, stating no fighting has occurred since Friday last. Atlanta is being gradually invested by our troops, who were intrenching themselves as they progressed.

Intelligence of the successful result of a cavalry raid on the road leading from Atlanta to Macon is hourly expected.

There seemed to be no disposition yet on the part of the rebels to evacuate, and it is probable the city will not be taken without a severe struggle and regular investment and siege.

The Herald's Washington special says it is reported that Hunter's request to be relieved of his command has been acceded to, and Gen. Crook has just been appointed Brevet Major General, who succeeds him.

The rebel raid appears to have dwindled into a comparatively small affair. We understand the Government is in receipt of information that Hill's rebel corps, which was reported to have re-enforced Early, is still at Petersburg. The column which has been operating in the Valley is only a portion of that which participated in the late invasion.

There is a general feeling here that the affair is about over, and that, when the forces which are en route to the scene of action shall arrive, the rebels will be gone. It is certain they have not crossed the Potomac, and it is believed the evacuation of Martinsburg was unnecessary.

[Special to the World.]

WASHINGTON, July 27.

More definite intelligence is being developed regarding the rebel advance on the upper Potomac since the fight on Saturday last, not Sunday, as heretofore published, in front of Winchester. The enemy made no new demonstration beyond occupying Martinsburg on Sunday and Monday. There is good authority for stating they evacuated that place yesterday and have not, as yet, appeared at any of the Potomac fords. It is believed to be only a portion of Early's force that advanced so far up the valley. The cavalry succeeded in removing all supplies at Martinsburg across the Potomac at Williamsport, which place is held by our forces. Last night our troops held Harper's Ferry, Maryland Hights and Hagerstown, and not even rebel cavalry had been seen in Maryland. The report that A. P. Hill's corps had joined Early's forces, while they are known to be those that occupied Winchester, is untrue, as Grant is stated to have telegraphed that Hill's corps is still in front of Petersburg.

NEW YORK, July 28.

Gen. Sanford returned from Washington last night, having succeeded in obtaining from the War Department that such of the one-hundred days' men from this State as may be in the service at the time of the draft will be exempt.

The Herald has the following from the Department of Western Virginia:

General Averill is neither killed nor wounded; the same of Gen. Kelly.

The reports in regard to the capture made of prisoners by the enemy are much exaggerated.

On Sunday 159 prisoners, recently captured by Generals Crook and Averill, arrived at Wheeling, and are to be forwarded elsewhere.

WASHINGTON, July 27.

General Grant is clearing out his camp and hospitals and sending the sick and wounded to Washington. Several hundred arrived here to-day, among them a number of officers.

The following order has just been issued by the War Department:

WAR DEPARTMENT, July 26, 1864.

General Order No. 234]

Brevet Major General Crook is specially assigned by the President to command in the Department of Western Virginia, with the rank and pay of brevet Major General.

By direction of the President, Major General Wm. A. Emory is assigned to duty according to his Brevet of Major General.

WASHINGTON, July 27.

The Tribune's special from Washington says Gen. Grant to-day, in reply to a telegram addressed to him by the President as to whether any considerable body of rebel troops had left his front to re-enforce Early and Breckinridge, replied that the rebel army at Petersburg was as strong as ever; that he did not believe that any considerable force had been sent to the valley.

No news has been received here from the Upper Potomac.

The fords of the Susquehanna are to be fortified. Engineers were sent to Harrisburg to-day for that purpose.

[Special to the World.]

WASHINGTON, July 28.

Letters from the army of the Potomac state that a heavy artillery duel took place on Monday along the line. The rebels, evidently, thought something was about to take place on our part, but they were mistaken.

Rawlings and Collamer, of Frantz's staff, returned to the army to-day.

ST. LOUIS, July 28.

The Democrat publishes a long account of the conspiracy for the erection of a Northwestern Confederacy referred to a few days since. The organization engaged in this conspiracy is known as the Order of Knights, and its real object is to embarrass and thwart the Government in the conduct of the war, and overthrow of the Government is necessary for supremecy.

Its professions and purpose are different in the different States; it proclaims a war policy in New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and other Eastern States, while in the West it is for peace. The order is of Southern origin, being erected on the ruins of the Knights of the Golden Circle by Gen. Sterling Price, supreme commander. Vallandigham, while in Richmond, was made supreme commander of the Northern section by order, and a conspiracy was entered into between him and the rebel authorities to divide the East and West, and thus aid the Southern rebellion.

Vallandigham's sojourn in Canada was principally for the purpose of furthering this scheme. He held conference with some of the leading spirits in the North soon after arriving in Canada, and arranged for the establishment of the order throughout the loyal States and Mexico. All who visited him at the Clifton House—among them Wm R. Reid, of Pa., Pendleton and Pugh, of Ohio, Kibbin, of St. Louis, Story and Merrick of Chicago—are published.

The result of this conference also is known to the Government alone. On the 1st of January Vallandigham issued an address to the lodges of all the States, in which he calls upon the members to renew their vows, and says the time is approaching which will test us in sincerity; that the prosecuted war is a violation of the rights of States, and that President Lincoln is a usurper.

A meeting of the Grand Commanders of the different States was held in New York on the 22d of February for the purpose of organizing an outbreak.

The 10th of March is the day fixed for the draft, but no definite plan is resolved upon. The names of these conspirators is also known. The same Commanders holds convocation with the Supreme Commanders at Windsor, C. W., early in April, for a general consultation.

Among those in attendance were McMasters, of New York, Chas. L. Hunt, of St. Louis, and Lafayette Develin, of Indiana. The programme adopted at this meeting was, that Vallandigham should represent his District in Ohio in the Democratic National Convention, there to proclaim the doctrine and order all present to pronounce the existing administration of the Government a power usurped, which the people had a right to expel by force if necessary, in fact, inaugurating a rebellion in the North, where he was supported by the order.

The Grand Commander was to have armed a body guard at each convention for the defense of Vallandigham. This, it was thought, would precipitate the people of a few States into armed conflict, and would be a signal for members of the order to unite against lawful authorities, and to kill and capture civil and military officers, and to secure the public property of all kinds and proclaim the overthrow of the Government.

There is the most convincing evidence of truthfulness in this statement. The reason of Vallandigham's sudden return to Ohio was, that he feared being defeated as delegate to Chicago, and it was only by his presence his election was secured.

The numerical strength of this order is said to be considerable over half a million, 150 000 of whom are an armed organization. In New York the organization is called McClellan Minute Men, and numbers over 200,000.

The Grand Commander in Missouri is Chas. L. Hunt, nephew of James H. Lucas. Deputy Grand Commander, Charles E. Dunn, city officer, St. Louis.

The list of names and number of the Order in the different States, together with full information concerning who the scheme is in the hands of, the authorities at Washington will probably give to the public to-morrow.

PHILADELPHIA, July 28.

Gentlemen from Baltimore report great ignorance there regarding military movements. The city is quiet, but intense anxiety for suppressed news, caused the most improbable rumors—among others that the brokers and public officers are preparing to remove their valuables from the city.

Our informant believes that a raid into Pennsylvania is the object of the rebels, but before they can get there they must defeat our forces, which are now threatening their right wing.

WASHINGTON, July 28

The latest authentic intelligence is, that General Kelly has occupied Martinsburg

There has been no heavy fighting the past three or four days, and no information that the rebels have re-crossed into Maryland.

The rebels occupy Falling Water, on the Virginia side, and our forces Williamsport, on the Maryland side, the contest being for the ford.

There is no evidence that Early has been re-enforced.

The affair at Winchester, Saturday, where Col. Mulligan was wounded, was only a skirmish. General Crook was forced to retreat, finding his small command flanked.

PHILADELPHIA, July 28.

The Evening Telegraph has the following:

Washington, July 28.—The arrival of the mail boat from City Point brings intelligence of great interest from Grant. Government only allows this announcement at present.

NASHVILLE, July 28.

One thousand and twenty-five rebel prisoners, including sixty-four commissioned officers, arrived here this morning, captured near Atlanta in the battles from the 19th to the 22d. They comprise troops from nearly all the Southern States. Officers are one Colonel, one Lieutenant Colonel and one Major; the balance are low officers.

BALTIMORE, July 28.

Dispatches from Frederick to the American to-day say all is quiet here. News from the front looks favorable. We still hold Harper's Ferry. There is still some uneasiness on the N. C. roads, and apprehensions of a raid. Orders are issued to remove all rolling stock.

CINCINNATI, July 28.

Accumulated Capital $6,000,000 00
Liabilities to Nor. 1st, 1863, from Commissioner's Report 3,724 581 36
Ratio of expenses to receipts for 18 years, is 7 9-10 per cent.

A COMPANY SHOULD SHOW ITS LIABILITIES and ratio of expenses, as well as its assets. People should investigate before insuring. This Company is purely mutual. No stock or guarantee fund to absorb the profits; but all the surplus is annually credited to the policy holders as dividends, in proportion to the amount of renewals, premiums after the first four years.

Over two millions four hundred and sixty-eight thousand dollars have been refunded to policy-holders in dividends or surplus premiums.

The surplus or profits from last year's business, to be paid in 1867, is nine hundred and ninety-seven thousand eight hundred and eighty-one dollars.

This Company has issued the largest number of policies of any Company in the United States.

Its economy has permitted large dividends, which have averaged 40 per cent. Furnishes insurance in all the various forms. A life policy by one payment, with profits. A life policy by ten annual payments, with profits.

This Company issued last year 5,270 policies. Surely this is the Company to insure with.

Gray's Patent Molded Collars

HAVE NOW BEEN BEFORE THE PUBLIC FOR nearly a year. They are universally pronounced the neatest and best fitting collars extant.

The upper edge presents a perfect curve, free from the angles noticed in all other collars.

The caret causes no puckers on the inside of the turn-down collar—they are AS SMOOTH INSIDE AS OUTSIDE—and therefore perfectly free and easy to the neck.

The Garotte Collar has a smooth and evenly finished edge on both sides.

These Collars are not simply flat pieces of paper cut in the form of a collar, but are MOLDED AND SHAPED TO FIT THE NECK.

The upper edge presents a "Rowsity" (or turn down style); in every h-ll size from 12 to 17 inches, and in "Bureks," (or Garotte), from 13 to 17 inches, and packed in "solid sizes" in neat blue cartoons, containing 100 each; also in smaller ones of 10 each—the latter a very handy package for Travellers, Army and Navy Officers.

EVERY COLLAR is stamped

"GRAY'S PATENT MOLDED COLLAR."

Sold by all dealers in Men's Furnishing Goods. The Trade supplied by

Diarrhœa

—AND—

FLUX.

STRICKLAND'S

Anti-Cholera Mixture,

IS A COMPOSITION OF ASTRINGENTS, ABSORbents, stimulants and carminatives, which every physician acknowledges is the only preparation that will effect a permanent cure of Diarrhœa and Dysentery.

And the cure Mixture is now in use in several of our army hospitals, where it gives the greatest satisfaction. It has saved the lives of thousands of our soldiers and citizens, and we will guarantee it to be the best remedy in the world for Diarrhœa and Dysentery.

Mr. Woods, at Covington, Ky., will be most happy to satisfy any one as to the virtues of Strickland's Anti-Cholera Mixture; in fact, we have great number of testimonials from patients who have been cured after being pronounced incurable by their physicians, some after taking only one bottle of Strickland's Anti-Cholera Mixture. If you suffer with Diarrhœa and Dysentery, try one bottle.

SOLDIERS,

You ought not to be without such a valuable medicine. The Cincinnati National Union, of April 26th, says, that thousands of our soldiers have been saved by the use of Strickland's Anti-Cholera Mixture. For sale by druggists at 50 cents per bottle. my13

AYER'S SARSAPARILLA

FOR PURIFYING THE BLOOD

And for the speedy cure of the following complaints

Scrofula and Scrofulous Affections, such as Tumors, Ulcers, Sores, Eruptions, Pimples, Pustules, Blotches, Boils Blains, and all Skin Diseases.

OAKLAND, IND., 6th June, 1860

J. C. AYER & Co.—Gents: I feel it my duty to acknowledge what your Sarsaparilla has done for me. Having inherited a Scrofulous infection, I have suffered from it in various ways for years. Sometimes it burst out in ulcers on my hands and arms; sometimes it turned inward and distressed me at the stomach. Two years ago it broke out on my head and covered my scalp and ears with one sore, which was painful and loathsome beyond description. I tried many medicines and several physicians, but without much relief from anything. In fact, the disorder grew worse. At length I was rejoiced to read in the Gospel Messenger that you had prepared an alterative (Sarsaparilla), for I knew from your reputation that anything you made must be good. I sent to Cincinnati and got it, and used it till it cured me. I took it, as you advise, in small doses of a teaspoonful to a wineglass of water, three times a day. New and healthy skin soon began to form under the scab, which after a while fell off. My skin is now clear, and I know by my feelings that the disease has gone from my system. You feelings that the disease has gone from my system. You can well believe that I feel what I am saying when I tell you, that I hold you to be one of the apostles of the age, and remain ever gratefully Yours,

ALFRED B. TALLEY.

St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Tetter and Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, Sore Eyes, Dropsy.

Dr. Robert M. Preble writes from Salem, N. Y., 12th Sept., 1859, that he has cured an inveterate case of Dropsy, which threatened to terminate fatally, by the perseverating use of our Sarsaparilla, and also a dangerous case of Malignant Erysipelas by large doses of the same; says he cures the common Eruptions by it constantly.

Bronchocele, Goitre or Swelled Neck.

Zebulon Sloan, of Prospect, Texas, writes: "Three bottles of your Sarsaparilla cured me from a Goitre—a hideous swelling on the neck, which I had suffered from over two years."

Leuchorrhœa or Whites, Ovarian Tumor, Uterine Ulceration, Female Diseases.

Dr. J. B. S. Channing, of New York City, writes: "I most cheerfully comply with the request of your agent in saying I have found your Sarsaparilla a most excellent alterative in the numerous complaints for which we employ such a remedy, but especially in Female Disorders of the Scrofulous diathesis. I have cured many inveterate cases of Leucorrhœa by it, and some where the complaint was caused by ulceration of the uterus. The ulcer of the latter itself was soon cured. Nothing within my knowledge equals it for these female derangements."

Edward S. Marrow, of Newbury, Ala., writes: "A dangerous ovarian tumor on one of the females in my family, which had defied all the remedies we could employ for her at length been completely cured by your Extract of Sarsaparilla. Our physician thought nothing but extirpation could afford relief, but he advised the trial of your Sarsaparilla as the last resort before cutting, and it proved effectual. After taking your remedy eight weeks no symptom of the disease remains."

Syphilis and Mercurial Disease.

NEW ORLEANS, 20th August, 1859.

DR. J. C. AYER—Sir: I cheerfully comply with the request of your agent, and report to you some of the effects I have realized with your Sarsaparilla.

I have cured with it, in my practice, most of the complaints for which it is recommended, and have found its effects truly wonderful in the cure of Venereal and Mercurial Disease. One of my patients had Syphilitic ulcers in his throat, which were consuming his palate and destroying the roof of his mouth. Your Sarsaparilla, used by him, cured him in five weeks. Another was attacked by secondary symptoms in his nose, and the ulceration had eaten away a considerable part of it, so that I believed the disease would soon reach his brain and kill him. But it yielded to my administration of your Sarsaparilla; the ulcers healed, and he is well again, not of course without some disfiguration to his face. A woman who had been salivated for the mistaken cure of mercury was suffering from this poison in her bones. They had become so sensitive to the weather that on a damp day she suffered excruciating pain in her joints and bones of her limbs. She, too, was cured entirely by your Sarsaparilla in a few weeks. I know from its formula, which your agent gave me, that this preparation from your laboratory must be a great remedy; consequently, these truly remarkable results do not surprise me.

Fraternally yours, O. V. LABIMME, M. D.

Rheumatism, Gout, Liver Complaint

INDEPENDENCE, Preston Co., Va., 6th July,

DR. J. C. AYER—Sir: I have been afflicted with a painful and inveterate Rheumatism for a long time, which baffled the skill of physicians, and stuck to me in spite of all the remedies I could find, until I tried your Sarsaparilla. One bottle cured me in two weeks, and restored my general health so much that I am far better than before I was attacked. I think it a wonderful medicine.

J. FREAM.

Jules Y. Gotthelf, of St. Louis, writes: "I have been afflicted for years with an affection of the Liver, which defied my health, everything, and every-thing failed to relieve me; and I have been a broken down man for some years from no other cause than derangement of the Liver. My beloved pastor, the Rev. Mr. Epps, advised me to try your Sarsaparilla, because he said he knew one, and anything on earth made me worth trying. By he bless'g of God it has cured me, and has purified my blood as to make a new man of me. I feel now as well as the best that can be said of me is not half good enough."

Schirrus, Cancer Tumors, Enlargement, Ulceration, Caries and Exfoliation of the Bones.

A great variety of cases have been reported to us where cures of these horrible complaints have resulted from the use of this remedy, but our space here will not admit them. Some of these may be found in our American Almanac, which the agents below named are pleased to furnish gratis to all who call for them.

Dyspepsia, Heart Disease, Fits, Epilepsy, Melancholy, Neuralgia.

Many remarkable cures of these affections have been made by the alterative power of this medicine. It stimulates the vital functions into vigorous action and thus overcomes disease to which would be supposed beyond the reach of medicine. Full directions required by the necessities of the people, and we are confident that this will do for them all that medicine can do.
